VOX STELLARUM

Engels

The “Vox Stellarum Symphony” is a project first conceived by the composer in 2003, and was finally completed 10 years later for the first complete performance in April 2012. “Vox Stellarum”, latin for “voice of the spheres,” is a reflection of mankind and how our pursuit for power, affluence and property has led to devastating results on our planet. The most important inspiration behind this work are two pictures the composer has seen. Both are photographs of Earth--one in 1970, and one in 2002-- and a huge difference could be seen, with the latter one being less green and beautiful than the former.

The symphony is in four parts, and begins with “Overture to Vox Stellarum,” which highlights the start of our journey into space for discovering the beauty of our world. The second movement, “Warrior’s Dream,” is an extended prayer for world peace, paving the way for a utopia of bliss and harmony. In the next movement, all musicians put down their instruments in exchange for stones to perform “Gaia’s Wrath,” in a symbolic gesture representing the demise of technology from war, back into the dark ages. “Journey’s End,” the last movement of the symphony, is in two broad sections-- a rondo and an epilogue--describing the last struggle of mankind and the possible discovery of a new home on another planet, since the natural resources on Earth are almost fully depleted.

All four movements of the symphony can be performed individually. The symphony can be ordered as a complete set, and every movement is also available separately. The symphony is dedicated to the memory of a world without war.

Nederlands

De “Vox Stellarum Symfonie” is een project waar de componist in 2003 aan is gaan werken en welke uiteindelijk bijna tien jaar later werd afgewerkt voor een eerste volledige uitvoering in april 2012. “Vox Stellarum”, “stem van de sferen” in het Latijn, is een afspiegeling van wat de mensheid in zijn streven naar macht, welvaart en bezit heeft veroorzaakt en wat voor desastreuze gevolgen dit heeft gehad en nog steeds heeft voor onze planeet Aarde. De belangrijkste inspiratiebron voor dit werk zijn twee afbeeldingen die de componist ooit onder ogen kreeg: twee foto’s van onze planeet Aarde – één uit 1970 en één uit 2002 – waarop geweldige verschillen te zien zijn; de tweede bevat veel minder groen en is duidelijk een stuk minder fraai dan de eerste foto.

De symfonie bestaat uit vier delen en begint met de “Ouverture to Vox Stellarum” die de start van onze reis door het heelal uitbeeldt om zo de schoonheid van onze planeet Aarde te ontdekken. Het tweede deel “De Droom van de Krijger” is een uitgebreid gebed voor wereldvrede. In het volgende deel ruilen alle muzikanten hun instrument om voor stenen om zo “Gaia’s Wrath” (De Woede van Gaia) uit te beelden. Geen technologische oorlogvoering, maar terug naar het oer en stenen tijdperk. “Journey’s End” (Het Einde van de Reis), het laatste deel van de symfonie, bestaat uit twee onderdelen – een rondo en een epiloog – die de laatste strijd van de mensheid en de mogelijke ontdekking van een nieuwe woonplaats op een andere planeet beschrijven, aangezien de natuurlijke levensbronnen op aarde bijna volledig uitgeput zijn.

De vier delen van de symfonie kunnen afzonderlijk uitgevoerd worden. De symfonie kan als volledige compositie besteld worden, maar elk deel is ook afzonderlijk verkrijgbaar. De symfonie is opgedragen aan de herinnering van een wereld zonder oorlog.

Duits

Die Sinfonie „Vox Stellarum“ ist ein Projekt das schon 2003 vom Komponisten entworfen wurde und letzten Endes zehn Jahre später, für die erste vollständige Ausführung im April 2012, vollendet wurde. „Vox Stellarum“, „Die Stimme der Sphären“ auf lateinisch, ist eine Meditation über die Menschheit und ihrem Streben nach Reichtum, Macht und Wohlstand. Die wichtigsten Inspirationsquellen für dieses Werk waren zwei Bilder. Es sind zwei Bilder der Erde, eines aus dem Jahr 1970 und eines aus dem Hier und Jetzt. Es sind gravierende Unterschiede zu erkennen. Das zweite Bild erzählt von einer nahezu zerstörten Welt.

Die Sinfonie enthält vier Teile und beginnt mit der „Ouvertüre Vox Stellarum“ die den Start unserer Reise durch das Weltall, um die Schönheit unserer Erde zu entdecken, darstellt. Der zweite Teil „Der Traum des Kriegers“ ist ein ausführliches Gebet für den Weltfrieden und erklärt die Utopie von Glück und Harmonie. Im nächsten Teil tauschen die Musiker ihr Instrument für Steine aus, mit denen sie „Die Zorn von Gaia“ darstellen: Eine symbolische Geste, die den Untergang der Technologie des Kriegs in alten düsteren Zeiten. „Das Ende der Reise“, der letzte Teil der Sinfonie, enthält zwei ausführliche Abschnitte – ein Rondo und ein Epilog – die den letzten Kampf der Menschheit und die mögliche Entdeckung einer neuen Heimat auf einem anderen Planeten beschreiben, da die natürlichen Lebensquellen auf der Erde fast ganz und gar versiegt sind. Die Sinfonie ist gleichzeitig der Wunsch einer Welt ohne Krieg und ohne Hass.

Die vier Teile der Sinfonie können separat ausgeführt werden. Die Sinfonie kann als vollständige Komposition bestellt werden, aber jeder Teil ist auch separat erhältlich.

Frans

La « Symphonie Vox Stellarum » est un projet conçu à l’origine en 2003 et réalisé définitivement dix ans plus tard pour la première exécution complète en avril 2012. « Vox Stellarum », « la voix des sphères » en Latin, est une méditation sur l’homme qui évoque notre soif de pouvoir, de prospérité et de richesses a engendré des résultats destructeurs sur notre planète. Les principales sources d’inspiration pour cette composition sont deux images qui ont frappé le compositeur. Il s’agit de deux photos de la Terre – l’une datant de 1970, l’autre de 2002 – qui montrent d’énormes différences ; la deuxième montre bien moins de verdure et est nettement moins jolie que la première.

La symphonie comprend quatre parties et débute par « L’Ouverture de Vox Stellarum » qui décrit le départ de notre voyage à travers l’univers à la recherche de la beauté de la terre. La deuxième partie « Le Rêve du Guerrier » est une longue prière pour la paix du monde qui pave le chemin vers l'utopie du bonheur et de l'harmonie. Dans la partie suivante, les musiciens échangent leurs instruments pour des pierres afin de représenter « La Colère de Gaïa » par un geste symbolique qui exprime le déclin de la technologie de la guerre dans un lointain et obscur passé. « La Fin du Voyage », la dernière partie de la symphonie, comprend deux grandes sections — un rondo et un épilogue — qui décrivent le dernier combat de l'homme et une éventuelle découverte d'un nouveau lieu d'habitation sur une autre planète, car les sources naturelles sur Terre sont presque totalement épuisées. Les quatre parties de la symphonie peuvent être jouées séparément.

Elle peut être commandée en totalité , mais chaque partie peut également être commandées séparément. La symphonie est dédiée à la mémoire d'un monde sans guerres.

Nederlands:

Koh Chun Wong (als dirigent ook bekend als Jun Wong) is een jonge componist, geboren in 1986 en opgegroeid in Singapore. Aan het Peabody Instituut voor Muziek studeerde hij directie bij Gustav Meier en compositie bij Oscar Bettison, en hij beschouwt Jorma Panula en Ya-Hui Wang als zijn mentors. Momenteel dirigeert hij op het Yong Siew Toh Muziekconservatorium het studentensinfonieorkest en assisteert regelmatig bij producties van studenten. Als componist heeft hij in opdracht gewerkt voor het Philharmonic Winds-orkest, het symfonieorkest van het Millenia Instituut, Het Nationale Book Bestuur in Singapore, het NOMAD Kunst Festival, en recente hoogtepunten zijn onder andere wereldpremières tijdens het Internationale Saxophone Congress in Thailand, de Esplanade Concert Hall in Singapore en op het Yong Siew Toh Muziekconservatorium. Als dirigent heeft hij met verschillende harmonieorkesten gewerkt en werd hij onderscheiden met een studiebeurs van het WASBE om een directiestudie te starten bij Dr. Allan McMurray van de University of Northern Colorado. Zijn enthousiasme om de plaatselijke kunstsector te promoten, heeft in 2004 geleid tot het ontvangen van de Creative Arts onderscheiding van Raffles Junior College. Tussen 2007 en 2010 leidde zijn deelname aan de internationale festivals en masterclasses met Gunther Herbig, Esa-Pekka Salonen en Leif Segerstam tot gastdiriecties bij het Carlos Chavez Jeugd Orkest (Mexico), de Filharmonie van het Cincinnati Muziekconservatorium, het Philharmonisch Orkest van Jena, het Liszt-Wagner Orchestra uit Budapest, het Singapore Sun Festival's Academies Festival Orchestra en het Philharmonisch kammerorkest uit St. Petersburg.
